If we succeed in controlling our mind, it becomes our best ally, but if we permit it to run amuck, it steals our inner peace and undermines all productive endeavors. It is necessary to understand that the internal peace is never a result of external circumstances. It is a product of purified senses, peaceful mind, and intellect. He explained the portions of mind and how it functions. With many examples, Dr. Saxena explained how we can convert an ugly situation into a pleasant one by regularly training our mind to use the creative portion more than the reactive part.
